Re: Weekly Briefing 12-04-2020

IT'S HERE! www.ALForVeterans.org has a new look!

We really took the time to think through how our members engage with the content on www.ALForVeterans.org and how the public engages with it. The site is designed so that someone unfamiliar with the American Legion Auxiliary can look at it and easily see what we do and what we're all about.

And you're probably sick of us saying this, but please make sure your internet browsers are up to date. What does this mean? If your technology is not current, connecting can be difficult. For the best online experience, National Headquarters recommends using Google Chrome, Firefox, or Safari. Many websites no longer support Internet Explorer.

Another technical tip: If you currently have the site bookmarked and it hasn't refreshed yet, you can also see it at legion-aux.org. Just be sure to update your bookmark.

We invite you to be among the first to check out the new www.ALForVeterans.org. Don't delay – click today!

IT'S A WRAP! The National Veterans Creative Arts Festival – At Home 2020 concluded today. What an amazing week it's been showcasing the best of the best in visual, writing, and performing arts nationwide. In between showcases were numerous artists workshops and education topics as well. I learned so much and had the good fortune of being in the right place at the right time, so I was able to talk with some of the veteran award winners one-on-one.

The silver lining in NVCAF being virtual this year is the opportunity for ALL our members to be able to see the showcases and have a better understanding of the importance of art therapy to our veterans. This is one of the ALA's premiere programs and our strong partnership with the VA makes the Veterans Creative Arts Festival possible. As a member, I take great pride in being able to say the American Legion Auxiliary truly helps veterans! In case you couldn't view the showcases throughout the week, you can view them through the links provided at: <https://www.facebook.com/NVCAF/>
Hope you enjoy the show!
